

The scatter doesnt really have a pattern just all the point are together in the middle/top right. The current fleets histogram has a fairly high frequency toward the lower end unlike the new fleet which has quite high frequency in the middle of the data but is less uniform. The new fleet has a much larger bound than the current fleet and they do cross over with one another.